

CERTIFICATE

This is to certify that Oleksandra Hondiul, Lecturer of the Institute of Journalism at Borys Grinchenko Kyiv University, took part as a speaker in the EJTA Teachers' Conference "How to teach engagement journalism and getting in touch with your audience" on May 12-13, 2022 in Aarhus, Denmark.

The topic of Ms Hondiul's speech was "To teach Solutions Journalism in wartime in Ukraine".

The main theme for the EJTA Teachers' Conference was about interacting with and involving the users of journalism and about developing better ways to have democratic conversations in a time with growing polarization.

Director EJTA

The European Journalism Training Association (EJTA) was established in Brussels in 1990. It groups about 80 journalism centers, schools and universities from about 30 countries across Europe. They work together to improve journalism education in Europe, enabling members to collaborate on exchanges and teaching and research projects, and meet regularly to exchange ideas and information.
